

Our mission is delivering Photography into Education

We're really proud of what Picture Train stands for. Here are some examples of what teachers and educators are saying about us –

“It's all very interesting and I can recognise many benefits from the service” Martin Bragg, Hardwicke Primary School, Gloucestershire

“This is a phenomenal opportunity to take learning to the next level”
Simon Wrafter, Lacon Childe School, Shropshire

“A wonderful product – there are numerous benefits to schools”
Jackie Bagnall, University of Exeter, Centre for Leadership studies

“It is exciting and provides an ingenious opportunity for children both in the curriculum and in their school life” Lesley Thomas, Hindlip First School, Worcestershire

“The advantage of a well priced learning resource in times of spending cuts means students get the benefit of arts curriculum which otherwise would be denied them”
Elaine Bowen, Lightwoods Primary School, Birmingham

“This is an exceptionally great service that supports school curriculum objectives, the arts curriculum and the flexibility which schools crave. The ability to use a website at different hours of the day and also involve parents at home to collaborate with their children is an enormous benefit” Tim Maxfield, University of Worcester

“The children can mark each other's work and that is an enormous value proposition” Wendy Murphy, Croft Independent School, Stratford upon Avon, Warwickshire

“It caters for both the teachers and pupils (as well as enabling families to work together in a creative manner towards their children's curriculum subjects) at a very reasonable annual subscription. It's marvellous” Heather Thompson, Inkberrow school, Worcestershire

“I have had very positive feedback from the children themselves who liked to explain the technical side of things - it is excellent value for money. A truly innovative way to go with learning – it appeals to all parts of the education spectrum from primary school and secondary school with holiday clubs as well. The information is clear and concise and very easy to read” Carolyn Scott, Hartlebury Primary School, Worcestershire

“Wonderful for learners of all abilities” Guy Ayling, Sedbergh School, Cumbria
